A SATISFYING SELECTION OF AMERICA'S FINEST NEW RESTAURANTS

By Pam Kragen

As San Diego's dynamic dining scene continues to sizzle, an ever-increasing smorgasbord of new eateries has been opening countywide, with dozens more on tap for fall and winter. Here's a slice of what's been cooking since July 1, plus a generous serving of what's to come.

BAR BY RED DOOR, MISSION HILLS

The former Wellington Steak and Martini Lounge closed in June for a revamp and rebranding as an upscale cocktail bar that will feature locally sourced small plates, and cocktails featuring items from the adjacent Red Door's garden. The reopening is slated for late-September/early October.
